DETAILED ACTION

This is the First Office Action in response to the above identified patent application filed on November 13, 2003.

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1-3 are objected to because of the following informalities: the terminology "interior surfaces recessed" (claim 1, line 6) should be changed to --interior recessed surface-- and the term "inserted" should be changed to --received--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Villars (US Patent 3,309,060).

Villars illustrates (Fig. 4) a screw nut assembly for an actuation device which comprises a screw (13) comprising a main screw nut (18) and a safety screw nut (29) engaged with the screw, for synchronously driving the screw to perform axial linear displacement, wherein the safety screw nut includes an exterior surface and the main screw nut includes a receiving portion for receiving the safety screw nut therein, the receiving portion includes an interior surface recessed with at least one slot (34) and a spring (33) disposed within the slot, such that the safety screw nut is inserted into the receiving portion by a resilient force exerted by the spring.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Villars (US Patent 3,309,060).

Villars, as described above, does not disclose the materials from which the nuts are formed. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the nuts from the claimed material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the screw device of Klausmeyer ('891), Pfaußer ('319), Bird ('794), Lord et al. ('166), Wourms ('310), Jensen ('505).
